

ABSTRACT

An operation panel display device (304) presents the state of each virtual object to an observer on the basis of information about the state of each virtual 5 object. An input device (303) or 3D pointing device (302) inputs an operation to change a desired one of the presented states. A computer (400) updates the information in accordance with the input operation.